SUGAR SHARES DOWN

The Stock Adversely Affected by the Democratic Tariff Bill.

Drop of Nearly 7 Per Cent. on the New York Stock Exchange-Condition of Local Markets.

At New York, yesterday, money on call was easy at 1@1% per cent., the last loan being made at 11/2, closing offered at 11/4. Prime mercantile paper, 4@51/2 per cent. Sterling exchange dull, with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85\\@4.85\ for demand and $4.83@4.83% for sixty days; posted rates, $4.84%@4.87; commercial bills, Silver certificates, 69%c bid. Bar silver closed at 694c per ounce; at London, 324d. The total sales of stocks were 343,400 shares. The speculation on the Stock Exchange was remarkable by reason of the strength manifested by the railway list in the face of a very serious overturning of values of the industrials. It was expected that the provisions of the new tariff bill would be made public to-day, and consequently the street was prepared for an active speculation. The brokers were early at their offices, and consultations with customers had the end in view that orders should be explicit, in view of the impending movement. An unusualy large number of stop orders were given, and when the break in prices subsequently came they materially assisted toward the movement, The first unfavorable news came was of the reduction of 50 per cent, in the sugar tariff and the lowering of the bounty to domestic producers. It was followed by a wild rush to sell the shares of the American Sugar Refining Company. Immense blocks of the stock were thrown upon the market at constantly-declining prices, and with no appreciable rally until a break of 7 per cent. had been made, which was shortly before ! o'clock, at which time over 100,000 shares of the stock had been disposed of. A slight buying movement was developed at the lower figures, which resulted in a recovery of 4 per cent., 4 per cent. of which was subsequently lost, making the decline on the day 6% per cent. In the railway list there was a fractional decline at the opening, but despite the slaughter of Sugar and Distilling, and the generally unsettled feeling in the industrial group, there was no break in the railways. The bond market was irregular during the day, but closed firm, Government bonds

The following table, prepared by James E.

Berry, Room 16, Board of Trade, shows the were strong, but State bonds were dull.

THE DEMOCRATIC PURPOSE.

It Is Free Trade, and Cleveland and Carlisle Are Paving the Way for It.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: Mr. J. G. Carlisle, formerly of Kentucky, now of Wall street, has been telling those unfailing supporters of the Democratic party, the bankers of New York city, all about money. He shows that it is possible for a man to turn squarely around and renounce all of his former convictions and start out on a new career advocating everything which he always condemned, and still be just as far from the right as he was in the beginning. Mr. Carlisle, the unlimited free silver man, is just as unsafe as Mr. Carlisle, the goldbug. He is very plain in declaring his adoration for the single standard goldbug theories of Grover Cleveland, who, before his first inauguration, declared that unless the coinage of 2,000,000 silver dollars per month were stopped we would have a panic. It was not stopped, but was increased, and no panic came. He is also very plain in showing to the country that he is speaking to and for and by the bankers. Of all the men in this country whose interests are adverse to silver as money, no men are so deeply interested as bankers. Their interests and the people's clash. It is to the people's interest that money be plentiful; then it will be loaned easily and at low rates; but when it is scarce it is hard to get, and an opportunity is pre-sented to make rates high. Can anyone point out a line in Mr. Carlisle's speech which considers the welfare of the whole He dwells with painful attention on the foreign trade. This is the same old Democratic trick. The foreign trade! It is the nightmare of Democratic politicians. The Journal and all the Republican speakers told us last fall that we consume at home about 90 per cent. of our products, and that, under the beneficent influence of the Republican tariff, we were steadily reducing the amount of our imports and increasing the amount of our exports. Shall we change our monetary system to accommodate the rest of the world? Does the Republican party favor legislation for home or for Europe? Mr. Carlisle has spoken, and he favors something for the people across the pond. No Republican has as yet, to my knowledge, publicly pointed out the real obect of Cleveland and his helpers. They are for free trade first, last and all the time. They want to make some little preparation for it. So long as the wall of tariff protection is around us and we can trade with the outside world on our own terms, we can carry on our double standard. But when the wall of protection goes down and we buy and sell at the mercy of the few gold standard nations of the East, we must have gold. As we will not then likely make half as much of the articles which we need, our imports will be greatly increased and our exports diminished. We will buy more than ever, and will have to pay for it with gold. If we buy but little we can spare the gold. But if we buy much all of our gold will soon leave us. If we are to be merely a trading nation, not a manufacturing nation, and are to be reduced to a level with the pauper paid laborers of the old world, we will have to have a gold standard of the Cleveland type. It is well, perhaps, to be prepared for the blessings of free The President is very merciful to the American laborer. He will not strike down the tariff until he has provided a money system exactly like that of Europe, so that the laborer who has no work can buy food and clothing there. He is anxious to furnish the American people an opportunity to buy some of that cheap London clothing we have heard so much about. His preparations for that are wise. He will first make money so scarce that the laborer cannot get any, and then he will destroy the laborer's industry and shut up the shops. A man who will not be grateful to Cleveland for all these favors is hardhearted indeed. What a priceless privilege, in the eyes of the Democrats and mugwumps, to have it to say that you buy your clothes just like they do in London! Mr. Cleveland is only preparing for free trade, and the fool Republicans who helped him by their votes for the repeal bill have only made his job easier. There can be better laws than the Sherman law, but they will not be enacted by Democrats, and those Republicans ought to have known it. Meanwhile, has anybody in this whole country refused to take silver or the certificates issued under the Sherman law? It is a cardinal Republican principle that we should first look after the home trade and home market. The last campaign was, on our part, a home market campaign. Mr. Carlisle's speech is a foreign market speech. The only thing that will take our gold from us much under a tariff system is to pay what balances of trade may be against us. As under that system the balance will be light and always growing lighter, the gold problem need not worry much. The Sherman law was not the cause of the hard times. The cause was a lack of confidence in the Democratic

Larger Increase in the Visible Supply Had Been Expected.

Early Collapse of the Bull Market Overcome and Small Gains Added-Provisions Advance.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27 .- After a marked decline wheat rallied to-day on small increase in the visible and closed 1/3c higher for May and 1/2c higher for December. Corn was held up by wheat, it was claimed, and provisions ruled higher on free covering by Wheat began the day with a loss from Saturday's closing price of %c for May on the breaking of the drought in the winter wheat belt. The Duluth receipts were again a disturbing element. First they were reported at 205 cars and later corrected to 675, making a total of 1,201 cars from the Northwest, which caused a further decline, although the total for the week shows a falling off in the receipts from the Northwest. A private dispatch gave Russian shipments for the week at 5,750,000 bushels, and this big showing was also a bearish influence. Prices ruled lower for some time. Fear for the effect of the expected failure of a London financial institution was also given as a reason for the early collapse of the bull feeling which existed Saturday. The rumor was current gossip all day, but the visible supply statement, although still incomplete, gave indications of a smaller increase than had been expected and prices began to advance. When the full returns showed an increase of but 530,000 bushels the price took an upward shoot and in ten minutes May had reached 691/2c and later went 4c higher. Then Pardridge and Leeming became free sellers and a reaction of %c took place at the close. May opened at 68%c, declined %c, rallied %@%c, advanced %c, sold up %c, lost %c, advanced %c and reacted %@%c to close at 69%@69%c Corn was dull after opening with May higher, and gained another 1/3c. Receipts were 462 cars against the estimate of 425. For to-morrow 810 cars are expected, and this had the effect of driving prices back to the opening. The strength in wheat however, prevented further decline, and May closed where it opened. Oats experienced a moderate local trade and fluctuations were in sympathy with corn. May started %c lower at 30%c, sold up %c, and reacted %c to close %c higher than Saturday at 30%c.

The provision market opened weak, with receipts of hogs larger than the estimate and with prices at the yards 5@10c lower. The Anglo-American Company bid freely at the low figures, and with shorts covering prices advanced sharply, but the Cudahy Packing Company became sellers of pork and ribs and a reaction followed. The gain was not lost, however, and the closing prices were higher all around. As compared with last night, January pork is 30c higher, January lard 10c higher and Janury ribs .10c higher. Freights were slow, but a little vessel room was taken at 2%c for wheat, 21/2c for corn and 21/4c for oats to Buffalo. Estimated receipts for to-morrow are: Wheat,

140 cars; corn, 840 cars; oats, 300 cars; hogs,

24,000. Leading futures ranged as follows:

"A WOMAN BEHIND IT." Why the House of Representatives Failed to Pay $440,000 Salaries. Kate Field's Paper.

The curious condition of affairs at the hour when Speaker Crisp and Vice President Stevenson dropped their gavels and declared the House and Senate, respectively, in recess until the regular session of Congress should begin was due to a squabble over a woman's salary. The Senate had sent over to the House for concurrence a deficiency appropriation bill for $20,000, which provided for the salaries of clerks of Senators on the roll call between the two sessions of the Fifty-first Congress. The House declined to pass it, and sent to the Senate a bill providing for the salaries of clerks of members during the coming recess. The Senate fired a shot at the House in exchange for the refusal to allow the Senate its $20,000, and refused to agree to the members' clerks' bill. The House would not budge, and the Senate declared no House appropriation would be agreed to until it was allowed. When the House clerks' bill was sent back with the Senate deficiency attached as an amendment, the committee on appropriations showed a desire to let one save the other, but Mr. Hutchinson, from Texas, would not yield, and the House adjourned while "tellers' were being taken on the bone of contention, with Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Richardson passing the members between them. Mr. Hutchinson, who made the fight, deserves to go down to fame. In the first of the talk Mr. Huchinson merely objected to the bill from the Senate on general principles. As a matter of record during the years when Texas was represented in the Senate by Mr. Reagan, that Senator's wife served as his clerk. Mrs. Reagan was one of the cleverest women ever in Washington, and was thoroughly adapted mentally to public work. No one ever disputed the fact that she was the most efficient aid to the Senator, her husband, whose colleagues have been known to sigh because they not acquired such devoted, disinterested and indefatigable clerks as Mrs. Reagan. Now, it happened that during the recess between the two sessions of the Fifty-first Congress, Mrs. Reagan's name, of course, was borne on the list of clerks, and her salary was provided for in this bill, which the Senate was urging upon the House. In trying to convert Mr. Hutchinson to its approval, some members urged, "Well, it includes Mrs. Reagan's salary for the recess." Mr. Hutchinson was fired at once.

"It does, does it? Then we'll teach Reagan that no man from Texas shall ever ask this government to pay a salary for his Hutchinson went to his post, flung himself into the fight with impetuosity and kept it up. The other Texas members after a while ranged themselves in line, when the story got around to them. On one ballot all but Hutchinson refrained from voting on the support. Later they wheeled after Hutchinson and stuck to him generally to the end. That is why the gavels in the House and Senate crashed down and left over $440,000 in salaries for janitors and custodians of public buildings, clerks to members and House clerks unprovided for.

About Soups.

Good Housekeeping. Soups may be divided into four clases or kinds, as folows: Clear soups, thick soups, purees or bisques and chowders. Clear soups include all modifications of the bouillon or broth. Thick soups have for their foundation the consomme, or rich broth, which is usually the bouillon reduced by boiling-whence the name, signifying perfected or improved-and with a thickening ingredient added. Consomme is a very rich and nourishing dish, and is to old men, says Professor Blot, what milk is to babes. It may be said generally that a cook who can make a good consomme can make any kind of soup.

A puree is made by cooking the vegeta-ble ingredients of the soup soft, and rubbing them through a sieve. A bisque is simply a puree of fish. Chowders are quite different from other soups, being compounds of any fish, flesh, fowl or vegetables, in such proportion as may suit the ideas of the cook. The compound, when complete, should be thick, highly seasoned and palatable, but the ingredients should not be cooked to the consistency of the puree. Bouillabaise, the famous French dish, which so delighted the palate of the famous novelist Thackeray that he composed a poem in its praise, is a chowder. We are told that there are no less than one hundred recipes in France for making this famous dish, and as many ways of spelling its

In making soups of all kinds, the slow, even prolonged simmering, not boiling, be observed as all-essential to the good result. The French say that the soup pot should only "smile;" that is, it should never show any bubbles on the surface, but should cook slowly at an even heat, just below the boiling point. It is because our cooks and housewives cannot, or rather will not, understand this rule. that the soup of the average American household is such "a mere pretender to the name." It is not enough, as certain blunderers seem to fancy, to keep the con-stituents of the broth hot for several hours. It must cook incessantly, never stopping for even a moment's time. Furthermore all the water, needed for the soup should be put into it at the beginning. A serious loss of flavor is risked if more water has to A good, clear soup should be of a fine brown color. The use of the best of materials, and prolonged boiling, will insure this attractive color, but should these be lacking, several ways may be tried to supply the deficient hue. Brown gravy from a roast may be added, but this, even when strained, is apt to impair the clearness of the broth. A better way is to use a little caramel or burned sugar, or a very excel-lent preparation, to be kept on hand for the purpose of coloring soups, may be made Take an earthen jar and fill it with alternate layers, first of moderate-sized onions, a clove stuck in each, then a layer of brown sugar and a small piece of butter, and so on until the jar is filled. Put this into the oven in the evening, when the fire is going down, and leave it there over night. Repeat this for a number of successive nights, till the onions have cooked down and a dark strup is formed. Then put the jar aside and use its contents, a few drops at a time, to color soups and gravies. If a simple straining does not make a soup as clear as desired it should be ciarified with the whites of eggs. The white of one egg is enough for three pints of broth. It should be stirred unbeaten into the cold soup, and the shell of the egg, crushed. should be thrown in also. Then put the soup on the fire, bring it to a boil, and let it boil rapidly for from five to ten minutes, Then take it off, let it cool for a few minutes, then strain it through a flannel bag. In straining soups, as in straining jellies, in this way, the bag must not be squeezed, but must be suspended, allowing the liquid to drip slowly through. RAILWAY TIME-TABLES.
